For the Love of Friends book club questions:

1. Lily quickly finds herself in over her head with all of the weddings. At what point should she have started saying no?

2. The family dynamic plays a role in this novel. Who is the most toxic member? And does Lily successfully break the cycle by the end?

3. Who was your favorite character? Your least favorite? Why?

4. A lot of the brides descend into stereotypical “Bridezilla” behavior. Is this realistic? What’s the craziest wedding experience you’ve had?

5. Is Lily's blog justified or crossing a major line?

6. Which marriages seem like they’ll work out the best? Are there any that you think are doomed from the start?

7. When did you figure out the twist with Alex?

8. Is Lily going to be capable of a healthy relationship with Alex? Has she learned enough?

9. Who should be apologizing to who in the end? Were the resolutions with the different brides satisfying or unsatisfying? Why?

10. Will Sharon come around eventually? Will Lily keep trying? Or are they actually done?

11. Lily’s relationship with her mother is frequently strained. What will Joan be like when Lily eventually gets married?

12. Should Lily say no to Becca at the end? Or has she grown up enough to set effective boundaries?

13. Lily wants to be a good friend. In what ways does she succeed? In what ways does she fail?

14. What was the funniest scene in the novel?

15. How much of the tension between Lily and Amy is real versus the two sisters projecting their own issues onto each other?

16. Lily’s boss gives her a year to come up with a plan for what she wants to do. Where do you see her going?

17. What should Lily have done instead of starting the blog?

18. What was the biggest lesson that Lily learned throughout the course of the novel?